A plea to the public to begin depositing Christmas cards this weekend for all States West of the Mississippi and for the Deep South was issued by Postmaster Ephraim Martin.

He also stated that Christ mas parcels for all points out side of New England should be mailed at once for Christmas delivery. The fear of bad weather in any part of the country which would be felt here at Boston on delayed receipt of Christmas mail, makes it necessary to take advantage of all good weather to advance the mail. Last year 350 million cards and packages were handleo in December at Boston. Forecasts are for a 3 to 4% in-rease this year.

Postmaster Martin also ad vised that the postage rate on greeting cards this Christmas are the same as last year, namely 4 cents for first-class sealed cards which can be forwarded, where necessary, or 3 cents for unsealed cards which cannot be forwarded or reurned

The rate on cards for Canada and Mexico are the same as for the United States. Postage for all other foreign countries (surface mail) is 5 cents on a card unsealed and 11 cents sealed. It is recommended, however, that all Christmas mail not already sent be given air mail service. Air mail rates can be obtained at all local post-

The need for a build-up now in Christmas mail is impera-tive and postal officials look for heavy deposits of distant mail this weekend.

IT WILL MEAN MORE IF

colorful... casual... typical John Douglas ...

This phrase best tells the John Douglas story.

For instance: a rich, bright Fair Isle Sweater, a colorful shaggy new Mouton Ski Hat, a pair of Imported French Capeskin Gloves, or a wonderfully new Evening Skirt we picked up in New York just a few weeks ago . . .

Or, for him, our traditional John Douglas Sport Jackets, a gorgeous Ski Sweater from Denmark, our own Hockey Shetlands, a fire-red Velvet Smoking Jacket, or a pair of Sheep-Lined Storm Boots for life in the country.

Myriad gifts, all new, all interesting.

Everything is colorful, casual, typically ours.

And - your gifts mean more if they're from John Douglas.

The Mayor realistically recognizes that there is no place in Newton where an incinerator could be built objection. Mr. Sylvester, in tracing past events connected with the attempts to build an incinerator, pointed out that the original $10,000 study by the engineering firm of Metcalf and Eddy resulted in a recommendation last January that the incinerator be built on Pine street. After a squabble in the Board of Aldermen, he recalled, the Board in June appro-priated $8000 for a second study and boring at Pine street, Rumford avenue and Elliot street.

Second Report Is Submitted

In September, Metcalf and Eddy Eddy submitted a second report which said in part:

residential housing, an cess to site is better than for Pine street.

"Con eration should given to accessibility to ash dump. Elliot street is not recommended because of increased trucking costs. Also, a fire station is located near-by, and increased traffic generated by the incinerator could result in traffic conges-tion when fire equipment is called out." Sylvester went on to say Sylvester went on to say that the site development costs listed in the report were $137,500 for Pine, $139,500 for Elliot and $387,500 for Rumford.

"However," Sylvester continued, "the true figure for Rumford would be $220,000 since the $167,500 indicated as needed for 'fill' can be supplied free from the toll road construction. Thus Rumford. construction. Thus, Rumford would cost about $80,000 more initially than Elliot, but this amount would eventually be made up by not having to haul ash from Elliot (estimated at $19,000 per year)."

Mayor Gibbs recommended
the Pine street location in the message he sent to the Alder manic Board last winter, but he was unable to obtain passage of a bond issue for an incinerator at that site.

As a result this month's meeting of the Republican State Committee is likely to see something akin to a political blood-letting.

Francis Perry May Emerge As Candidate For Governor

Crusading Representative Francis W. Perry, uncessful Republican nominee for Lieutenant Governor in last month's election, may emerge as the logical GOP candidate for the Governorship in 1964 if Governor Volpe should decide that he has had his fill of

An analysis of the election returns reveals that Perry made an extremely creditable showing in the face of the Democratic tide in his first run for state-wide office and that he will have to be reckoned with in future campaigns.

It is generally assumed that Volpe has first claim on his party's nomination for Governor in '64 if he wants a return fight with Governor-elect Peabody. At this time Perry rates second to Volpe among the GOP's gubernatorial prospects.

Persons close to Edward W. Brooke declare that now plans to serve at least two terms as Attorney General before striking out for any other office.

George Lodge has indicated that his interest is in the field of international affairs, not in assuming the headaches which go with the Governorship.

That leaves Volpe and Perry unless some newcomer suddenly flashes into prominence on the Republican

It would not be unprecedented or even unusual for a candidate defeated for election as Lieutenant Governor to come back two years later and win the Governorship. Leverett Saltonstall and the late Paul A. Dever both did it.

Saltonstall was nosed out for Lieutenant Governor in 1936 but was elected Governor in 1938. Dever failed in his bid for election as Lieutenant Governor in 1946 and then achieved the Governorship in 1948.

"The problem of motivation is multidimensional, and it is necessary for the counselor to understand as many of the dimensions as possible. "Forces influencing motivation are continuously chang-ing, thus the role of the counselor must change accordingly. However, motivation is red in stable frame of reference, and this is what the counselor must use to support his theory of aid. This also is what we are basing the study on.'

Although no definite approach to the problem been agreed upon, Dr. Margo-lin feels that one may be the colleges to assist them in re-search and establishment of training methods used by training programs.

The Newton professor pointed out that motivation is only Northeastern in a workshop on "Resolving the Problems of Dependency Through Motivation" conducted in September of 1962. "Northeastern and the counselors involved (26 from all six New England states) were more than pleased at the results," Dr. Margolin said.

Don't Go Till School Bus Does Riley Warns

The Registry of Motor Vehicles has had so many omplaints that motorists are not complying with the recently amended school bus law that Registrar Clement A. Riley has asked all information media to pass along a warning as follows:

"Prior to the amendment Sunday, Dec. 23, weather permotorists were required come to a full stop, and then pass a school bus at a speed of not more than 10 miles per mitting. This week's win was a thrilling come-from-behind effort. With less than seven minutes

"Now, the driver must come to a full stop as before, but he may proceed only when the bus resumes motion, or when he is signalled by the bus driver to proceed, or when the bus blinker lights stop flash ing.

"The only exception when the motorist approaches a halted school bus from the opposite direction on a divided highway.

The registrar declared that situation most dangerous to school children had been created whether or not non-compliance was deliberate or the result of ignorance or misunderstanding.

Aldermen Seen Favoring Ward 4 Up-Zoning

Favorable action by the Board of Aldermen on a Claim and Rules Committee recom-mendation that Ward 4, Pre-cinct 4, in Auburndale be upzoned, was anticipated this week by City Clerk Monte G.

It comes up for the board's approval at its meeting Monday evening, Dec. 17, and if accepted will put in force in Ward 4 the same form of upzoning that was recently approved for Ward 3 in Auburndale. It means that an area now having a number of twofamily houses will be reserved for the construction of single residences only. Another matter to be taken up Monday night will be the city's second landtaking for a fire house made necessary by the toll road extension. The director of public works has recommended that land be taken for a replacement for the Newton Corner fire house on the northerly side of Church St., east of Richardson St. in Ward 1. The first such taking was a lot at the intersection of Commonwealth Ave. and Washington St., where the West Newton, Waban and Auburndale stations will be combined at one site.

The Aldermen will consider another recommendation of the director of public works for landtaking. This one would acquire land on the westerly side of Edinboro St. for the Water Department to make up for the plot the department re cently released for construc-tion of the new Horace Mann School on Watertown St.

The varsity track team, coached by Lamoine Boyle and Malsocial at Temple Beth Sholom ford avenue, which was merely "compromise" location, Rum ford avenue, which was merely across the street from Pine street and this location was subsequently turned down. The Mayor's next move was to have soundings taken at Rumford avenue and Elliot street (again at some expense to the city) to determine the relative cost of uilding on the different sites The result of these tests was that it would cost approxi-mately $100,000 more to build on Rumford avenue than on

Elliott street. To sum matters up, all the logic, engineering studies and surveys prove that the Elliott street location, which is the present location and therefore would cause the least change in the surrounding area is the most economical to build, maintain and operate. The Mayor does not seem to have the political courage to make a decision in accord with the findings of his own experts. In stead he seems to be looking for a way out.

It will be interesting to see how the Board of Aldermen yote when the matter comes up. Will they put the stamp of approval on "Government by Emotion" thus opening the door for other demonstrations, up. of perhaps even more vociferous of the type staged in this case or will they vote with reason and logic and thus serve notice

Ordinarily I spent much of my day on problems of truancy and disci-pline. Undoubtedly the House Plan has greatly cut down the number of these problems by providing the relationship that makes students want to uphold them-selves and their house." Mr. Hawkes cautioned, however, that utopian development of the plan is never Consider the attitude of Richard Mechem, Principal of Newton High School, and formerly principal of another similarly large high school without a house plan. Mr. Mechem affirms, "Although I am de-lighted to talk with students whenever the opportunity is there, it is impossible for me or any principal of a school this size to know many students well. For in this plan Housemasters and associated persons are not simply added onto the staff. More often, members of house staffs are members of the ol staff reassigned to work in a new orientation involving smaller of students. Boosted Social Security Taxes Start on Jan. 1

Workers and their employers will pay higher social security taxes beginning January 1. By law, the tax rate on wages increases on that date from the present 3% percent each on workers and employers to 3% percent each. The self-employment tax rate goes from the present 4.7 percent to 5.4 per-cent for 1963 earnings.

Social security taxes are col-lected on only the first $4800 of wages or self-employment e. A worker who has of $4800 and also income from a business pays only on his wages.

Self-employed people pay their social security taxes once a year when they make their Federal income tax returns. When making returns on 1962 income, self-employed businessmen will pay the 1962 tax rate of 4.7 percent. The new rate applies only to 1963 income, which, in most cases, won't be reported until 1964.

The new rates will, under present law, be in effect through 1965. Another increase is scheduled in 1966. The top rate scheduled to go into effect in 1968, is 4% percent each for workers and their replacements and their problems and the property and 60 percent for employers and 6.9 percent for the self-employed.

According to John H. Tegan. district manager for social security, these increases are to keep the system self-supporting and soundly financed. Mr. Tegan said that based on acturial estimates, these rates will provide ample funds for all payments set by present PRAISE GILCHRIST'S MACAROONS -Golden Almond Macaroons are praised by Louise Andrews Kent, known as Mrs. Appleyard, in her new book, "The Winter Kitchen", aas one of the "few things that the atomic age has not spoiled." Visiting Boston recently, Mrs. Kent took time to show the famous macaroons to friends from Houghton Mifflin, her publishers. Alfred E. Smith, Gilchrist's sales promotion manager, took this batch straight from the ovens where they are baked fresh hourly. Celebrities and many other people from all over the country make it a point to pick up this unique confection whenever they are in Boston.

Officials of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association this week issued a reminder to all local residents to be sure to get their 1962 Christmas Seals and to use them on Christmas mail, cards, letters and packages.

The local officials pointed to the fact that the 1962 Seals, like those in the past, are thoroughly enchanting.
The children decorating the tree with the double-barred cross are bound to add extra Christmas cheer wherever they are used.

And the appearance of the Seals each year assures each user that his, or her, tuberculosis association continues to fight the dread disease right in this community.

Christmas Seal dollars work through the year and are constantly employed to improve the general of the community, and in re-search to find better methods of prevention, diagnosis and treatment to help in the fight against tuberculosis.

Heed Weather If Planning A Holiday Drive

The one horse open sleigh was made for the express purpose of dashing through the snow, and in this respect it surpasses the modern family automobile.

Police and safety officials urge holiday motorists to treat bad driving weather with the utmost respect.

It may be disappointing, but much better to cancel that trip home for Christmas rather than risk the uncer-tainties of trouble or accident in a bad storm. If planning a trip, listen to and heed weather forecasts.

Powers Ideal Choice For Nat. Committeeman Senate President John E. Powers apparently will be named the new Democratic national committeeman from Massa

If that proves to be the case, it will be an excellent selec-

No one has worked harder for the Democratic party in Massachusetts than has the energetic Powers. He well deserves the honor of serving as its national committeeman.

Political observers have reported that the choice of a national committeeman will be made between Powers and Boston Mayor John F. Collins.

If that is true, Powers will be the man.

Collins feels that he has his hands full with his own duties as Mayor of the capital city and prefers to devote his entire time, energy and talents to them.

He is not a candidate for the position of national committeeman and has discouraged persons who have suggested that he seek the post. While Collins obviously would not involve himself in any contest for the right to be national committeeman if one should develop, it is known that he would be perfectly content to see the honor go to Powers.

Collins and Powers were opponents for election as Mayor in 1959, but Powers has workwith Collins since then in securing the enactment of laws beneficial to Boston.

Inaugural Problems

A feeling is growing on Beacon Hill that the inaugural of. Governor-elect Endicott Peabody may be the most chaotic affair in the modern history of Massachusetts.

Persons assisting in planning the arrangements for the affair estimate blandly that they have sent out in the vicinity of 15,000 invitations for the inauguration.

If even a third of the persons invited show up at the State House on inauguration day, the turmoil should be something to behold since there are accommodations for only few hundred in the House chamber where the inaugural ceremonies are to be held.

Some of Peabody's advisers originally wanted to hold the inauguration on the State House steps. That wasn't possible since the outgoing Governor traditionally walks down the steps as he leaves office.

Peabody could hold the inaugural exercises outside the State House in a place such as the Boston Garden if he chose to do so. But that would represent a break with custom and tradition.

Arrangements probably will be made to install television sets around the State House so that those who can't get into the House chamber will be able to view the proceedings on TV.

Modest Raise Forecast For State Legislators

Some time during the coming year the members of the Legislature probably will vote themselves back at least part of the pay raise which the people took away from them last month.

But they are not likely to be nearly as generous to themselves as Representative William A. Connell, Jr., Weymouth Democrat, proposes in a bill he has filed.

Despite the fact that the voters of the State last month back the legislative pay from $6700 to $5200, Connell would increase the salary of the law-makers from $5200 to $8500, a jump of $3300 and would also toss in an additional $1000 a year for expenses.

Responsible legislative leaders such as Senate President Powers are practically certain to drop the Council measure into the waste basket, just about as promptly as it is possible to do so.

No one really can dispute the fact that $5200 is not an adequate salary to pay the members of the Legislature and at the same time demand a high standard of service from

What undoubtedly will be done will be to set up a commission composed of business. civic and religious leaders and have them study the matter and submit a report on what the legislators should be paid.

That is the sensible way to approach the problem and one which would not have drastic political repercussions.

The fact that the voters repealed a $1500 legislative pay raise without throwing out of office a lot of law-makers who voted for the salary hike is no justification for the passage of Connell's bill.

The people also voted overwhelmingly against a graduated State income tax but elected a Governor who favored

Dr. Montgomery Authors Book On U.S. Foreign Aid

Dr. John Montgomery, 33 Whitney road, Newtonville, has published a new book, "The Politics of Foreign Aid." in which he claims the American public as well as many Congressmen have not faced the fact that a foreign aid program is an integral and permanent part of our foreign policy.

Dr. Montgomery, associate director of Boston University's African Studies Program, also comments that the policy of non-involvement in the affairs of countries recelving foreign aid is unrealistic. Talented Children Receiving Special Arithmetic Instruction

(This is the second in a series of articles being published by The Graphic on Newton's public school system.)

There are many very able pupils in the public elementary schools of Newton. Providing for their mathematics program and insuring stimulating practical experiences for them are concerns of their teachers and administrators. What follows is an account of such a program, its content, its implications, and some reactions from those who teach as well as those who are taught.

"10+11=1101." "111 x 11= 10101." "11+1=100." Do these look like typographical errors to you, or do you reeognize that certain children in elementary schools today command new vocabularies and have arithmetical comprehensions beyond those you so doing they become better

To talented sixth graders these equations make com-plete sense in the course of teach talented once you have

Or is the ster to keep them in their neighborhood schools and provide tailored curricula plus special individualized and small group. and small group instruction? Choosing the latter approach, Newton's teachers, principals and instructional specialists have pioneered plans for these children, including one in arithmetic for above - average children grades four, five and six— for use within the regular elementary school.

Selecting Children During the summer of 1959, committee made up of two arithmetic teachers and a consultant began working on the problem. They were faced with

Agreeing that ability plus interest in arithmetic important criteria for entry into the program, the committee developed a screening device that gathered both objective data and teacher judgment to be combined to make a total "score." Screening ordinarily takes place in late spring to facilitate grouping for the following September and embraces these measures: an intelligent test score and an arithmetic achievement test score secured from previ-ously - administered city-wide tests: classroom achievement: score on a non-computational arithmetic test, and teacher judgment checked on a 12-point list. The last two instruments are unique to the program which was designated Academically Talented in Arithmetic, or A.T.A., and are designed to determine a child's ability to think through a process without his actually doing examples.

A typical item on the noncomputational test is, "Which of these is a measure of area?" (1) feet; (2) acres; (3) yards; (4) gallons. Answering this question correctly requires reflection on vocabulary and the dimensions needed for calculaof area. The teacher judgment scale requires com-ment on pupil characteristics deemed essential for success in the program. Sample items are: intellectual curiosity, persistence, imagination, atti-

Instructional Content Working on what to teach, the committee and its consultant. Dr. Lonie Rudd, Tufts University Associate Professor of Education, have constructed eight distinctively titled study Inspection of units reveals content quite apart from that normally en-countered in the study of eleschool arit and certainly alien to the experience of today's adults who attended schools of just a few

Take for example, the fifth grade study of The Historical Development of Numbers. Visualize a child's appreciation of numbers as he writes a theme on "A Day without Numbers," learns that primitive man invented a tally system to keep track of his belongings, contrasts the number of symbols needed in Mayan versus Greek number systems and traces the development of number systems through the ages to their present refined status. Or mentally seat yourself in Mrs. Virginia Ridlon's class at Franklin School. Watch a child who feels a little unsure about "borrowing" in subtraction as he learns from the A.T.A. unit Laws of Numbers that the "equal additions" method is also accurate—and he likes it better. Observe him become more proficient and find that mathematics is not static, but flexible as long as basic laws are being observed. Ray Lund, Principal at Franklin School and himself intensely interested in mathematics instruction, believes firmly in the value of learning numerous ways of solving problems. As he phrases it, "Children become more in-sightful about numbers as they realize there are many ways in which they may be handled."

He suggests that "more able children learning the laws of numbers beyond routine com-outation is analygous to the ngineer's understanding the physical laws which govern the operation of an automo bile. A less sophisticated knowledge is completely satisfactory for the competent operation of the vehicle Mrs. Ridlon finds that her work on the committee as coauthor of the units has increased her wisdom and improved her techniques eaching students of all abilties. For example, in the study of the division of fractions she approaches it in a man-ner designed so that "The children will themselves find out that inverting and multiplying make sense, and they will tell me of their discovery."

Sharing a child's delight in learning is one of the rewards of teaching. After one of Mrs. Ridlon's pupils learned the lattice method of multiplication and the use of Napier's Bones, the girl remarked, "This is fun! I never knew there were so many ways to multiply numbers."

Teaching A.T.A.

The mathematics back-ground of teachers is very important and takes on even greater significance in a spe-cial program such as this. quently, before a teacher Cons handles A.T.A. in a classroom she attends a ten-session course led by Dr. Rudd. As far as how to organize classes, there is no universally prescribed best way. In some schools the pupils are taught by their regular classroom teacher who teaches arithmetic to the other students as well.

As is the case in most nations in the world which have been under the influence of Britain in the past, Christmas is celebrated on both Dec. 25 and 26. "The 25th is the religious day. The 26th is the day when the people play games, children play with their tore."

Andrew, who has been living with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jarrell, 173 Allen road, Waban, since Nov. 26, was more impressed with the American nation as a whole, rather than its Christmas celebration. "You have such beautiful homes and roads."

And the American people? Playing the diplomat, he answered, "There are some people who have been very nice and some that haven't, but I don't think I have been here long enough to talk about the American people."

"All the children are supposed to leave their shoes out for Pappa Noel. He is sup-posed to fill up their shoes with presents. And, the chil-dren can leave as many shoes as they want.

"Pappa Noel is supposed to come into the house through the chimney, or sometimes through the keyhole."

Teresa, who is staying with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Siegal, 36 Nardell road, Newton Centre, commented that being of the Jewish faith, she did not observe Christmas. As for the festival of Chanukah, which begins Friday, Teresa could not recall any specific family celebration on that holiday.

Of the three foreign students, only Nalayini Amara-singham of Ceylon, a senior at Newton High, lives in a nation where Christianity is not the majority religion. "Only ten per cent of the people are Catholic and five per cent Protestant," she said. "The majority are Hindu."

Nevertheless, Christmas is a national holiday. "There is not much public celebration, though you send cards to everyone. You would send non-religious Seasons Greetings cards to many."

Christ Is Born!

Somehow there are more lights, more song and more excitement than in years past about the approaching Christmas holiday. The season of sentiment certainly is upon us. With all this excitement and preparation, there is danger that the full meaning of the day may be forgotten.

What we fear is that in the face of all the joy of Christmas we may leave Christ out of it. Actually the full name of Christmas is The Feast of the Nativity of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. This phrase sums up the deepest meaning of the day and the source of all its other qualities.

Let us celebrate the feast of Christmas, but let every sentiment look back to the One without whom the day would not be. Chris is born!

Senator-elect Michael J. Galvin of Newton is approaching his Beacon Hill career with a determination to make better state government possible, judging by the character of bills he has filed for the attention of the upcoming Legislature.

"They set the stage for a major improvement by providing the ammunition for a strong Governor and a crusad." Cormack, Galvin pointed out. strong Governor and a crusading Attorney-General," says the former Under-Secretary of Labor and highly-decorated Major General in command of Massachusetts' 94th Infantry ded and supervised by the Attorney-General. One measure would give the Governor power for a sweeping reorganization of governmental departments, providing him with authority to remove, at his discretion, various department heads co-terminous with his administration, all subject administration, all subject to the approval of the Executive Council.

A third provision of the bill—described by its author as easily one of the most far-reaching pieces of legislation filed at the State House this year—gives the Governor power to appoint or relieve, at his pleasure, the chairmen of commissions and quasi-official missions and quasi-official authorities.

"This is a major move in the direction of reorganizing state government to a point where we can once again have thoroughly capable admini-stration," Galvin said. "It gives the Governor the opportunity to stimulate and lead his own program for the bet-terment of the Commonwealth, as opposed to prior methods whereby the Chief Executive has many times been trapped by red tape and inefficiency."

Among commissions affected would be the Massachusetts ed would be the Massachusetts Parking, Port and Turnpike Authorities, the Metropolitan District Commission, the Out-door Advertising Board and the State Department of Pub lic Works, the Senator-elect ex-

In legislation calling for a reorganization in the office of the Attorney-General, creation of a State Depart-ment of Justice is sought to "put some teeth into the office of the Commonwealth's chief law enforcement offi-cer, and give him adequate opportunity to combat graft, corruption and organized crime.

Galvin's legislation consti-tutes a three-pronged assault aimed at strengthening that office, and in addition it calls for creation of a Consumers' Council and establishment of a full-time division of Civil Rights and Civil Liberties.

Remarking that the At torney-General has been handi-capped by the lack of control over subsidiary agencies, Galvin declared that Edward J. McCormack, Jr., had been "a great Attorney-General, and had called for such a revision of the office.

Political Highlights

Peabody's actual experience in government consists of two years in the Governor's Council, a body he has since advocated be abolished.

How Peabody will get along with the members of the Council whom he would like to legislate out of existence and whose approval he must get whenever he makes an appointment, is a subject of widespread conjecture. That is only one of his more minor prob-

He has had no legislative experience whatever. As the law-makers would put it, he isn't a member of "the club," which means that he has never served in either the House or the Senate.

Past history has shown that Governors who had served in the Legislature encountered real difficulty in obtaining the passage of their programs. Peabody is fortunate in that he can have access to the advice and counsel of Senate President John E.

Powers. Powers, who has served 24 years in the House and the Senate, who is about to start his third term as president of the upper legislative chamber and who thinks nothing of putting in a 16-hour day at the State House, is probably the foremost expert on State problems to be found anywhere in Massachusetts.

But he isn't the type to force his advice on Peabody; nor is he likely to continue giving it if it isn't

What Peabody is going to discover above all else is that many of the things he would like to do would involve the enactment of new or additional taxes and that legislators are not easily persuaded to vote to levy new taxes or to raise existing ones.

Legislators vote readily for new programs as well as projects and improvements. They also balk at providing the money to pay the bills.

Peabody already has been told some of the facts of life concerning the State's financial picture. He has been quietly informed that the Commonwealth is barely taking in enough money to pay for the things it is now doing.

He has been cautioned that if he launches any new programs he must plan on new taxes to pay for them.

One decision Peabody will be obliged to make-and make quickly-is whether he is go ing to hold the line against any new taxes or do some of the things he declared in his campaign should be done.

He will be forced to make up his mind promptly on that because if he is going to seek any new taxes he must do it fairly early in the coming year. He would have virtually no chance of inducing the Legislature to vote for any new or higher taxes in 1964-an election year.

One of the issues on which Peabody campaigned was that the State should provide additional funds to the cities and towns to ease the tax burden they now impose upon real estate owners. Peabdy might make good on that issue if he strikes early and seeks the enactment of a sales tax in the name of an educational tax.

The legislators would not vote for a sales tax which was called a sales tax.

They might vote for a sales tax which was called an educational tax. Most law-makers consider it risky to vote against anything pertaining to educa-

Peabody could distribute the revenue realized from an educational tax to the cities and towns to help meet their school

Whether he will attempt that or not is uncertain. Whether he would suceed in such an endeavor is a big question. But is is just about the only way he might be able to help out the local communities.

Steps will be taken toward some of the constitutional reforms which Peabody has favconclusion that the incoming Legislature will approve a proposed constitutional amendment increasing the term of the Governor from two to four years and that the question of adopting such an amendment will be placed on the ballot for a vote by the people in 1964.

That would have been done if Governor Volpe had been reelected and Peabody had been defeated.

The first step toward such change was taken under Volpe this year, and the second will be taken under Peabody next year.

A proposed change in the Constitution must, of course, be approved by two Legislatures and then placed on the ballot for acceptance or rejection by the voters.

Some revisions also may be made in existing laws so that the terms of certain key de-partmental heads would coin-cide with that of a Governor, enabling a Governor to pick his own cabinet members stead of working with holdovers from a previous admin-istration and also placing on him greater responsibility and broader policy-making power.

These things, however, are not much more than political window dressing.

The meat and potatoes problem confronting Peabody will be where to get the money to pay for the things he wants to do as Governor.

a Governor who himself has

One reason is that most legislative leaders are zealous in preserving the separation of power between the executive and legislation branches of the government. A Governor with legislative experience recognizes this and conducts himself accordingly. One who doesn't usually finds himself embroiled in controversy.

Endicott Peabody's enorm ous problems will begin at the hour of his greatest glory.

"Here is one more example of how people bring about scientific progress in hos-pitals," Mr. Walker noted. "The hospital has the equipment for more effective diag-nosis because people and or-ganizations furnished the money. Residents who re-sponded to the Year-End Appeal financed the basic unit. Over the past ten months, we secured generous assistance from a Foundation and were pleased by the willinginess of the Hospital Aid Association to finance various refine-ments, so we could install a complete and modern unit. It will be one of the latest machines of its type in the Bos ton area. Mr. Walker revealed that nearly 65,000 x-ray films were taken in the hospital during the 12 months ending September 30, 1962, an increase of more than six per cent over the total for the previous 12month period.

"The steady increase in the use of the x-ray department, and all of the hospital's services, reflects the increasing importance of the hospital as a health center," he said. "It also mirrors the convenience to the community of having top-flight services and facilities nearby. The new equipment has been added becaus it is needed, mecause it will help us do a surer and safer job, and because it will help us do our work more efficently and more accurately."

The new unit will be the eleventh in the x-ray department, Mr. Walker pointed out. Each piece of equipment is available because of the special diagnostic and treatment applications required in effective patient care.

The apartment, which the family sought but was denied them, is not covered by the provisions of the state's current fair housing legislation, she continued, because it is what is technically considered a two-family dwelling, al-though the one in question is actually a 12-apartment unit.

South's victory over Brook-line, considered an upset, was an especially sweet one, as it was the locals' first in the five meetings between the two clubs. The combination of a good zone defense by the win-ners and a poor shooting record by the losers spelled victory for the Southies.

It was all Newton through-

Co-captain Bruce MacLean paced Newton with 23 points, with Richie Pollack, Randy Polen and Mark Young topping the rebounders.

Mayor Gibbs Wishes Merry Xmas To All As He Reviews '62's Events

Mayor Donald L. Gibbs, whose concern for the well-being of all residents of the Garden City is evident the year round, but perhaps more no-ticeable at the holiday season's approach, has availed himself of the columns of The Newton Graphic to wish them all a very merry Christmas and a Year marked by happiness and prosperity.

His Yuletide greeting, addressed to "All Citizens," is as "Another year is drawing to a close. The Christmas season is here with its Christmas Carols; the bright and twink-0 ling colored lights gladdening the hearts of young and old. "The Spirit of Christmas is o indeed a moment to pause and reflect on our blessings. We as a community, I am sure, should 8 do likewise as we strive to en 17 rich the heritage that has made 1 our city the wonderful community in which we live, work and worship. It is the enduring principles—the dedication to ideals—that keep our aims 10 high and our government

0 strong. "What could be a better sea son than that of Christmas to reaffirm our thanks, our bless-ings to one and all. May you have a very happy and joyous Christmas and an extremely pleasant New Year."

1962, Mayor Gibbs expressed

"Our financial condition will be better at the end of this year than it has been at previous years' ends," he said.
"Of course expenses will continue to rise," he continued.

"I'm not taking the sanguine viewpoint that they can be substantially reduced.

Referring briefly to Newton's delegation on Beacon Hill, the mayor said he was certain its members will work dilligently for legislation acceptable to the people of the city.

In conclusion, he said that "Newton's school system continues to be outstanding in the state and in the nation," and he said that the fact that a high percentage of the city's

On January 7, when the air mail rate goes up a penny, to 8 cents an ounce, this service 8 cents an ounce, this service to the American people will be in its 45th year, he noted. On May 15, 1918, when air mail was first officially introduced in America, 6600 letters were flown from Washington to New York City about 200 miles at a cost of 24 cents an ounce, which included a 10c special delivery fee. Special delivery arti-cles will be handled on Christ-mas Day. The postmaster pointed out that sending par-cels by air working more cels by air weighing more than one pound is often cheaper than using first class post-age. Air mail and air parcel post receives top priority on all scheduled airlines with a total of more than 10,000 flights daily throughout the nation.

Local Students In School Play

Newton students, members of the 7th, 8th and 9th grades at the Roxbury Latin School took part in two one-act plays at the school last Friday evening, December 21st.

Members of Class IV, (the 9th grade) presented a French play, "Le Cafe Cognac," written for school-boy presenta-tion by Strachan Turnbull. The action of the play centered around a gathering of a gang of thieves for the division of its loot and the unexpected way in which the tables were turned and they were cheated of their booty. Playing important roles were Robert Alpert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Alpert of 19 Westgate road, Newton Center, Martin A. Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hurray of 61 St. Mary's street, Newton Lower Falls, and Michael M. Kaplan, son of Mrs. Beatrice R. Kaplan of 20 Belmont street, Newton.

Assisting as prompter was Eric Randolph Gahm, son of Dr. and Mrs. Irvin G. Gahm of 414 Walnut street, Newtonville.

Members of classes V and VI (the 8th and 7th grades), presented a one-act comedy,
"The Battle of the Budget,"
by Anne Coulter Martens.
The "battle" was waged by three 'teenagers' for a raise in their allowances against an adamant father. He was winning the struggle when a business friend puts in an appearance, with surprising re-sults. Assisting as prompter was Charles L. Sidman, son of Mrs. Jean Sidman of 12 Indian Ridge road, Newton Centre.

Political Highlights

The people laugh and chuckle at the performances of comedians who mimic and caricature President Kennedy in best-selling records or in TV or night club

But it is the same kind of good-natured reaction there would be if they were enjoying a clever takeoff of a friend. Evidently, too, it makes Kennedy seem closer to them.
